

Birding Safaris

Tanzania is not only a place for animal lovers but also an ornithological paradise. Those who love watching birds and love traveling, Tanzania is the most iconic place to visit.

Tanzania enables a great opportunity for spotting different bird species which includes 2,500 bird species from 111 bird families. There are 700 bird species are found as migratory where 1,800 species are considered to be native. Selous Game Reserve, Serengeti National Park, and Ngorongoro Conservation Areas are assessed as the best destinations to watch these colorful and prettiest birds. We operate birding tours in all the iconic places where you can spot some of the rarest birds.

The wild expanses of East and Southern Africa are paradise for birders.

While there is plenty to occupy the keen or amateur birdwatching fanatic from the moment you touch down, there are also plenty of opportunities to spend time with some seriously impressive guides.

Some guides have developed bird knowledge as a special interest, some have become so familiar with the common bird guide books that they literally name the page with each bird sighting... It certainly saves time leafing through indexes! It is wonderful and worthwhile to have someone to share your enthusiasm with.

The many habitats of East Africa provide dream birdwatching locations, and a dauntingly long list of endemic species that you simply have to travel to find. We arrange bird watching package for individuals, groups, private, researchers, filming and professional photographers in Tanzania We are
